Online Library Resources for Counseling

Finding Journal/Magazine Articles

Access complete articles at no cost! Magazine articles, scholarly journals, and news articles are all a click away. Lakeland Library databases with articles on counseling include:

EBSCOhost Databases
- Academic Search Premier
- Education Research Complete
- ERIC
- Health Source-Nursing/Academic Edition
- Professional Development Collection
- SPORTDiscuss with Full Text (sport psychology)

JSTOR
- Scholarly articles usually 3 years or older.

ProQuest
- ProQuest Psychology Journals
- PsycARTICLES
- PsycINFO (no full-text)

SAGE Journals
- Scholarly journals from Sage publications.

To access the library databases:
- Check your syllabus or Library Resources section of Blackboard for the username & password.
- Go to the library web page. (www.lakeland.edu/library)
- Click Databases Find Articles.
- Select the database you wish to search.
- Enter the user name and password.

To access complete articles:
Hundreds of psychology and education-related journals are indexed in these databases. For many of the journals indexed, you will be able to access the entire article. For others, you will retrieve a citation and brief summary of the article. Articles not available in full-text (complete articles available) may be requested through inter-library loan.

Databases commonly include a feature to allow you to limit your results to full text. Watch for these options:

EBSCOhost   Full Text   ☐

JSTOR (select advanced search)   ☑ Include only content I can access

ProQuest   ☐ Full text

SAGE   ⦿ SAGE Journals Available to Me

Limiting your search to full-text may eliminate great articles that could be obtained easily through inter-library loan or another database.

Print Journals

The following journals are available in Lakeland's John Esch library. They are not available in full-text in our databases. Articles in these journals can be requested using the interlibrary request form on our website. (http://lakeland.edu/academics/library/ILL_request.asp)

Inter-library Loan

You found the perfect article, but it is not available online? Don't despair! Give the library's interlibrary loan services a try. Fill out the interlibrary loan request form. (http://lakeland.edu/academics/library/ILL_request.asp)

We will request the article from another library. Available articles typically arrive within 3 business days with some more difficult to locate items taking two weeks.

How Can I Find This Article?

Have you found a citation for an article in your textbook or elsewhere that you would like to locate? Give our E Journal List A-Z a try.

Enter the name of the journal in which the cited article appeared. E Journal List A-Z will identify if the article is available online and provide a link to that database. . For articles with no online availability, E Journal List will indicate if a print copy of the magazines/journals is available in the library.

Online Library Resources for Counseling

Online Books

Lakeland's online library contains a wealth of online books covering a wide variety of topics. Go to the library website; click on Databases Find Articles. Select eBook Collection. Log in. (username and password are available on Blackboard) Click on eBook Collection.

Enter your search terms in the search box and click Search. All items in your results list will include two options for viewing the book. The eBook FullText option allows the reader to read the book or sections of the book online.

If you want to download the book to read offline on a mobile device, use the Download (offline) option. You will need Adobe Digital Edition (free) and an EBSCO account (free). Detailed directions can be found in the Find Books section of Library Resources on Blackboard.

Citing an article from a library database? Many of the library databases will provide an APA citation for you. Be sure to check them over carefully. Sometimes they have errors especially with capitalization. Look for a cite icon similar to this
Using Microsoft Word 2007 or 2010 to type your paper?

Click on References and select Insert Citation.
Consider storing your research materials in Zotero, a free online bibliographic management tool. A free download is available at zotero.org. The Zotero site contains a video tutorial to get you started.
